

Tax Relief On Gas, Homes - Oliver

Newmarket — In order to encourage the building of new homes in Ontario during the next two years, owners of new homes costing not more than $8,000 will receive generous relief from municipal taxation when the Liberals are given the support of the electorate at the provincial general election on June 7.

This was announced Saturday by Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, at the Liberal nominating convention for York North here. "We propose to assume the municipal taxes, exclusive of the assessment on land or local improvement rates, on houses which are built during the next two years and which do not cost more than $8,000. This relief will apply to owners who are war veterans for a period of five years and to other new home owners who are war veterans for a period of four years," Mr. Oliver said.

The proposal for tax relief on new houses was one of several Liberal plans which Mr. Oliver announced would be carried out when the Liberals were given a mandate from the people. These plans, he said, were not a formal platform, because, "we feel that the people of Ontario will have nothing but contempt for any such performance after the way in which Mr. Drew ignored his own 22 point scrap of paper."

"The present tax on gasoline is excessive," Mr. Oliver declared. "It is far too high for an essential commodity. In days of rising cost of living, a tax of 40 percent is an extreme and unfair tax. When the Liberals are elected to be the government of this province, we will immediately eliminate the three cents a gallon tax on gasoline which was levied by the Conservatives."

Mr. Oliver offered a four point program for the improvement of hydro administration. "We undertake to take Ontario out of politics," he said. He cited the fact that three prominent Conservatives made up the membership of the Hydro Commission and blamed Mr. Drew's "political meddling and political bumbling" for the current power shortages and for the failure to extend hydro rapidly enough to rural areas.

"We will make provision for representation for the municipalities using hydro on the Hydro-Electric Power Commission," Mr. Oliver continued. "The Liberal Party thus will recognize in fact as well as in principle that, as the true owners of hydro, the people of Ontario are entitled to direct representation on their own commission, through their own municipal organizations, and have a voice in the administration of hydro throughout the province."

Mr. Oliver promised that the Liberals "will do all in our power to speed the completion of hydro power development in order to reduce the period of power shortages by encouraging producers of necessary basic materials and facilitating sources of both supplies and labor." He also said that "in order to extend hydro to everyone in the province where it is economically possible, we will remove the present restrictions for rural hydro service of two consumers to a mile."

The Liberal Party proposes to increase Workmen's Compensation benefits from 66 2/3 percent to 75 percent, and to shorten the waiting period before benefits begin from seven to three days. The Liberals also propose to "provide for a two weeks' annual vacation with pay after two years of continuous employment with the same employer" for all employees in industrial undertakings.

"We will increase old age pension benefits from $30 to $40 a month," Mr. Oliver said. "In co-operation with the Dominion Government, we will reduce the age limit for old age pensions from 70 years to 65." He promised also that, regardless of whether or not the federal amusement tax is turned over to the provinces, "we will grant hospitals necessary financial aid."

"We will co-operate with the Dominion Government," the Liberal leader continued, "for the establishment of a national labor code in which the rights of both labor and management will be preserved."

Mr. Oliver charged that Premier Drew had ignored and neglected Northern Ontario, and had even omitted representation from Northern Ontario in his cabinet, which was the largest in Ontario's history.

As a means of maintaining prosperity in the North, Mr. Oliver said the Liberals would "revise immediately existing legislation in order to aid mining municipalities, after consultation with the municipalities and other interests involved." The Liberals also will aid in the establishment of a Northern Ontario university, and establish at least three provincial government administrative offices in the North. Finally, Mr. Oliver said that a member from Northern Ontario would be included in his cabinet.

KIND TO ANIMALS

Newmarket — This week has been set aside as Kind to Animal Week and seems an appropriate time to draw attention to the Newmarket branch of the Ontario Humane Society. The work accomplished by this group in the caring for stray animals and the finding of new homes for them, in the veterinary treatment given to sick stray animals, frequently goes unnoticed in the community. Despite all these good deeds membership is lagging this year. Tickets are procurable from the membership committee, Mrs. S. W. Otton, Mrs. Joseph Greer, Mr. Wesley Brooks.

Newmarket — This week sees the completion of the second shipment of 80 parcels to Britain by the packing committee at the Red Cross work rooms. Of the approximate 630 parcels sent from Ontario to British families during the past two months 150 parcels were packed and sent from Newmarket. This record speaks highly for the busy committee. However, more help is needed and any group or individual wishing to adopt one of these British families may obtain a name from Mrs. M. B. Seldon, phone 454.

Lend a hand and help make this personal parcel service to Great Britain an even greater success.

Urge Police Watch At School Crossing

Newmarket — Traffic supervision by a part-time policeman or senior students was urged for pupils of the Stuart Scott school crossing Eagle St. by a delegation at council meeting Monday night. Chief Constable Burbridge said that a policeman would be required all the time to stop speeding on Eagle St. but that some effort has been made to control it. Forty-two summonses had been issued last Saturday for speeding.

Councillor Frank Bowser suggested that white lines be painted at a crossing. Councillor R. C. Morrison, chairman of the police commission, was asked to look into the possibility of getting a part-time policeman.

New School Said Needed Now

Newmarket — The public school board, in a discussion with the town council in the council chambers Monday night, asked council to approve of the building of a new six-room school and submit the proposal to the municipal board for its approval. Council has had no discussion on the proposal itself and Mayor Vale did not promise a decision at the next meeting.

The board advised immediate action to secure property for a new school and start building as soon as possible. J. B. Bastedo, spokesman for the board, said that the only suitable property in town which might be available is the land on the south side of Srigley St. between the former army camp gates and the Stickwood property. C. L. Boynton stated that the land runs deep to the race track and that he estimated the land to be about three and a half acres.

Members of the board said that if the municipal board did not advise that a ratepayers' vote be taken for a new building, much time would be saved. "We have had to exclude pupils under six years from present accommodation for the coming year," said Fred Hall. "We will be overcrowded in the coming year, but can get by," he said.

According to birth rate figures in Newmarket, a representative of the department of education told the board at their meeting last month that there would be an increase of between 200 and 300 pupils in four years. J. B. Bastedo said that a new school will be absolutely necessary for the fall of 1949. "We are really four rooms short for this fall," said Dr. G. E. Case who took into consideration that the manual training room and the domestic science room would be used for other classes and that there is no accommodation for the auxiliary class and for a five-year-old class.

Mr. Bastedo said that the board had discussed suggestions by the department representative to add two rooms to the Alexander Muir school and the Stuart Scott school. It found that the Alexander Muir school, because of insufficient playground space, and the condition of the building, was not suitable and that the Stuart Scott was not suitable, architecturally. A new school would be economical if the Alexander Muir had to be discarded and would suit the expansion of population toward the north and east, if built on the Srigley St. property.

Mayor Vale asked if the board had considered annexes as a temporary answer. Mr. Bastedo said that the board considered them unsatisfactory. According to the deputy minister of education, a new six-room school would cost between $75,000 and $80,000. The provincial grant would pay for about 42 percent of the cost.

The mayor asked if pupils residing outside of the town made any definite increase in enrollment. Mr. Bastedo explained that being spread out in different classes, they made no difference to the problem.

"If the outsiders prove that it is more convenient for them to attend school in Newmarket, we have to provide accommodation for them," said Mrs. Seldon.

Mr. Bastedo said there was a big jump of 30 percent in the enrollment last year. There are 32 new children in the new camp area alone, who are "just walking," but will eventually be pupils. "One sixth of the enrollment will be in grade one," said Mrs. Seldon, "and the enrollment averages about 40 pupils per teacher. The department advises 35 as a maximum."

Deputy Reeve J. L. Spillette suggested the fair grounds as a possible site. "It's too low," said Mrs. Mathews.

SUCCESSFUL TEA

Newmarket — St. Paul's W.A. held a successful afternoon tea last Friday, it being their annual spring tea. The hall was decorated with golden flowers, daffodils and forsythia and the afternoon sun shining through the amber west windows made a golden light all over the hall while the "pin-up" lamps round the walls with their fancy shades added to the delightful glow. The bake table was soon cleared — there never is enough home-baking to satisfy the purchasers at any sale. The members of the Newmarket branch are invited to be the guests of the Aurora branch on Tuesday, May 18, to hear a returned missionary from India give an address.

Tax Rate Drops 2 Mills To 45

Newmarket — The budget for 1948, with a drop to 45 mills from the 47 mill rate last year, was adopted at the town council meeting on Monday night. Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spillette, chairman of the finance committee, said that the increased $225,000 assessment assumed by the industries on the 1947 tax rate can be credited for the reduction in this year's rate.

"I don't know of any municipality that has been able to cut the tax rate this year, although a few have held the line," said Mr. Spillette.

Reeve A. D. Evans said that the $10,000 increased revenue from five of the six largest industries in town means three mills. There was an exceptionally heavy school rate last year caused by new heating equipment and the mill rate went up ten mills "so we thought we would go easier this year," he said.

The 45 mills tax rate is divided into 22.3 mills for general rates, 12.2 for public and separate schools, 2.6 for maintenance and debture (exclusive of water-works debture), 3.7 for county rate, 3.5 for high school and .7 for relief.

The 1948 grants to the various town organizations are as follows: recreation commission $500 (requested $1,000); Citizens' Band $800; Women's Institute $500; Tennis club $50; hard ball $25; Boy Scout Association $25; Horticultural Society $100 (requested $200); and the Boy Scout flag $25.

Demand For Workers Shows Increase

Newmarket — The demand for workers in all industries and in the construction business has shown an increase, according to a report from the employment office. The most marked increase is in the construction business.

The industries have a slightly greater need for male workers and it is expected that there will be a greater demand for young women capable of being trained for semi-skilled factory work. A number of experienced tannery workers laid off by Collis Leather, Aurora, in the early spring have been recalled. Construction has the greatest need for skilled carpenters with trim experience but there is no great demand for unskilled workers.

There is less construction going on now than at the same time last year but more is expected soon with a lower rate than last year. Contracts have been called for 50 low rental houses in Newmarket, and work is expected to start soon on replacing the bridge over the Jersey River. The two projects will probably take much of the semi- and unskilled labor around here.

There is a shortage of service labor which promises to be more acute as the summer season progresses. Summer resort employers will find a greater shortage than last year as student labor will not be available in as large numbers, according to the present indications.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

Newmarket — The industrial league will meet tonight in the back room over the council chambers.

Near $1,000 Raised To Assist Blind

Newmarket — The annual campaign of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind proved most successful in Newmarket and the surrounding district, reported Mrs. J. E. Morris, local convenor. "When all returns are in we shall be close to the $1,000 mark."

"To date the special subscriptions amount to $728.50. The tag day under Mrs. Elman Campbell and the three captains, Mrs. Harold Garrett, Mrs. C. S. Gilbert and Mrs. A. Czernick, amounted to $240.

"This generous financial support as well as the co-operation received from the volunteer workers and taggers was very encouraging. As a result the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will be greatly aided in carrying on its good work and teaching sightless Canadians the skills that mean independence and self respect."

To Have Hobby Show In Scout Hall

Newmarket — The Hobby Show being sponsored by the Handicraft Group of the recreation commission tomorrow will be held in the Scout hall instead of in the town hall as was formerly announced. The show will be open to the public from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.

Bell Manager Here Moved To Toronto

Newmarket — S. R. Van Dusen, Bell Telephone manager at North Bay, has been appointed manager of the company's Newmarket office, effective May 15 in succession to C. E. Blodale, it was announced this week. Mr. Blodale will go to Toronto to take up duties in the company's general offices there. In addition to his duties in Newmarket, Mr. Van Dusen will have supervision of the company's business offices at Aurora, Beeton, Bradford, Richmond Hill, Rocke's Point, Sutton, Thornhill and Tottenham.

Mr. Van Dusen recently completed 35 years in the service of the Bell company. He began his telephone career in Platon, as a clerk, and after serving there at Kingston, became manager at Cornwall in 1919. After serving in a supervisory capacity in Brockville and Ottawa, he was appointed manager at Sault Ste. Marie in 1925. Later he served as assistant manager at Hamilton and as manager at New Toronto and Cobourg. Garden Tips

Prepared by

 Newmarket Horticultural Society

Winter protection may now be removed from the garden, the soil cultivated and well-rotted manure or commercial fertilizers applied. Dead foliage and stems should be burned in order to check disease and insect pests, which they harbor. Perennials which have been heaved by frost should be pressed back into the soil. Apply fertilizers very sparingly near irises and lilies.

The most common method of propagating perennials is by division of clumps, the main crown being cut into a number of pieces, discarding the oldest and all diseased parts, replanting the young, vigorous portions. Plants should be divided before growth is well under way.

The least expensive manner for amateurs to secure a stock of plants is from seeds. Secure sound, mature seeds from a reliable seedsmen. Avoid sickly plants by destroying unsound and shrivelled seeds. Provide good drainage in the flats and use light, sandy soil with well pulverized leaf mould. The more porous the soil and its ability to hold moisture, the better will be results. Too much moisture should be avoided and watering is best done in the morning. A free circulation of air is necessary, and if crowded, the seedlings should be thinned out. A few days before transplanting, flats should be thoroughly aired, and water supply cut down in order to harden off the plants. Transplanting should be done on a cloudy or dull day. Air hotbeds and cold frames on warm, sunny days, to prevent damping off.

Perennials such as iris, phlox, lily of the valley, gaillardia, aquilegia, delphiniums and helonium may be successfully transplanted in spring. Plants which

Cat Nips

BY GINGER

I was stretched out listlessly on the front office counter last Friday night watching a lady bug walk across the front page of an old copy of The Era when I heard a crash in the basement.

I tore downstairs just as a big, doleful rat was picking himself out of a heap of empty waste buckets.

I asked him what he was doing and he said that being interested in newspapers, he was just looking around when he fell through the paper chute.

This rat's name is Euclid, named after a geometry book which he ate at birth. Euclid told me something of his life in a nutshell, although he didn't live in a nutshell for very long. He was born at an early age, just before his father died.

His father, it seems, was a lazy man who wore glasses. One day he woke up from a sound sleep just as an ant was walking across his right bicep. At such close range, he took it for a horned monster standing over him about to eat him and he died of fright.

Euclid's mother took in washing and sent him for his primary education at a neighboring cellar. He did very well and even went abroad to do post-graduate work in the Paris sewers.

His meagre family background, however, gave him a complex and he never really made use of his early experiences. He said he just wanted to be around a newspaper.

(Hearing his, I knew. I knew that he was no ordinary rat.) Euclid came to Newmarket from Syracuse, N.Y., in a re-conditioned dry cleaning drying machine sent from U.S. Hoffman to Canadian Hoffman here in Newmarket. Apparently this was a rotating machine of some kind and during the trip in a freight car, Euclid lost most of his hair due to centrifugal force.

Euclid said that he was a hair from death when he was unloaded at the Hoffman plant. A workman was testing a steam press and pressed Euclid's tail flat. His tail now acts as a weather vane and stabilizer. He has to tack up Main St. on a windy day.

This Euclid is an intellectual type of character, boss, so I decided to introduce him to our office.

Euclid will be an asset to this column, boss, I think.

Spring Evening
"Something's rotten in Denmark," wrote Shakespeare.

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," said somebody else.

As I leaned over the Water St. bridge and the gentle breezes blew in from Fairley Lake and the dam, these lines came to my mind. Over in the bull rushes, Hermon the Heron was testing the water for temperature and slime content with one foot, so I sidled over to chat with him.

"Nothin' like nature primeval around this quaint little lake, here in this garden of Eden you got in Newmarket," said Herman as the C.N.R. 6.15 special roared passed us a few feet away.

"None," said I while a bevy of screaming young beauties were chased across the park lawn by a horde of spirited young drug store cowboys who had cantered down from Main St. "Spring does something to our town beside flood the creeks, tear up the roads and start mysterious grass fires."

It was then that we heard a din from the direction of the business section and shouting that sounded like two fighting wild bulls. Two trailer trucks had met on the Main St. between rows of parked cars, and two policemen were holding two drivers who were foaming at the mouth and pawing the pavement.

After the street was well choked with hold-up traffic, the trucks moved by each other and fought their way through town to the outskirts, while the drivers probably were planning on how to get transferred to another route or what other line of work they could be interested in.

I went back to the office and Junior was working late, typing out some kind of a story about there being an election of some kind in June.

I went to sleep among some old cartoons down in the basement.

"A cat may look at a king," said Alice. "I've read that in some book but I don't remember where."—Lewis Carroll.

Euclid will be an asset to this column, boss, I think.

"None," said I while a bevy of screaming young beauties were chased across the park lawn by a horde of spirited young drug store cowboys who had cantered down from Main St. "Spring does something to our town beside flood the creeks, tear up the roads and start mysterious grass fires."

It was then that we heard a din from the direction of the business section and shouting that sounded like two fighting wild bulls. Two trailer trucks had met on the Main St. between rows of parked cars, and two policemen were holding two drivers who were foaming at the mouth and pawing the pavement.

After the street was well choked with hold-up traffic, the trucks moved by each other and fought their way through town to the outskirts, while the drivers probably were planning on how to get transferred to another route or what other line of work they could be interested in.

I went back to the office and Junior was working late, typing out some kind of a story about there being an election of some kind in June.

I went to sleep among some old cartoons down in the basement.

Irate caller: "You spoiled my article by a misprint."

Editor: "I'm sorry. What did we get wrong?"

Caller: "A proverb I employed. You printed it 'A word to the wife is sufficient'."

Then makes its own comment: "At this point we laid the whole thing aside and concluded that things are about the same, or might have been were they not otherwise specified as different which they weren't."

Credit business, if left to itself (subject to proper control of interest rates) would solve its own problems, claims The Printed Word. "The credit business will not survive if it permits buyers to go in over their heads. After all, most of Canada's great progress has flowed from credit of one kind or another."

Now that Britain's railways are nationalized, the public wants that extra bit of service. One of the latest requests asks the engineer of the 6.20 a.m. Hastings-Ashford train:

"Would you be so good as to hoot as you go over the iron bridge just out of Rye station, as we rely on you to get my husband up for work?"

"When you don't hoot, we are in a fix as we cannot buy an alarm clock anywhere."

"P.S.: My husband says 'not too loud' but I say 'blow like blazes'!"

Railroad officials said the request was being "considered."

Straw hats are generally esteemed as the only proper head-gear for warm weather and as a result are much worn by farmers and gardeners. Even horses have felt quite comfortable and avoided sunstroke by wearing special straw hats with holes cut in the brim to accommodate the ears. (This practice has also been adopted by some humans.)

However, as the straw hat becomes worn, there is a tendency for the weaving to loosen and let vagrant summer breezes sough through the holes. In some straw hat wearers, this faint rustling in the upper levels has a distinctly soothing effect. Quite often straw hat wearers are found sound asleep in the shade, lulled into dream land by the sound of the summer wind through their straw hat.

More sensitive souls object to this breezeway over their ears. They say that the faint rustle that the wind makes in its progress through their straw hat sounds rather like squirrels picking over nuts and when the location of the sound is considered, they object to the association.

We are sorry, but we can offer no solution.

Safe Driving
Best Advertising

(Temiskaming Speaker)
Safe and courteous driving on our highways is the best possible tourist advertising for Canada, said Ontario's Highways Minister, Hon. George H. Doucet, commenting on Tourist Service Education week, which ended on Tuesday.

Visitors will be more attracted to this country if they can count on being reasonably safe on our streets and highways. The tourist business is Canada's second greatest source of needed American dollars and it would be impossible to over-emphasize the necessity for making the public thoroughfares as free of hazards as possible and letting the tourists know that we want them to have a safe visit.

Engineering and law enforcement played important parts in the development of safe roadways, but more important is educating the public to safe driving and walking habits. Traffic safety programs in the United States have aroused the people to the importance of the continual use of care, courtesy and common sense by all who use the streets and highways. Knowledge that Canadians are just as concerned with protecting travelling public will favorably affect those contemplating a visit here. Ontario or any other province can not afford to risk acquiring a reputation for dangerous driving conditions.

Last year a million cars brought tourists to Ontario for lengthy stays and another three million cars entered the province for short periods. There are about 800,000 Ontario motor vehicles licensed to use the highways. Even during the off-tourist seasons there is a serious problem in the safe movement of traffic, and that during the tourist season the whole problem becomes greatly aggravated.

An opinion research survey of last year's American visitors showed that 63 percent rated Ontario drivers "good" on the score of care, courtesy and common sense; 31 percent rated them "fair" and only six percent gave "poor" for their answer.

This good opinion of American tourists can only be maintained, if every one of us becomes more safety-minded. Let us make our highways safer both for ourselves and our visitors by exercising more care, courtesy and common sense.

Jingles From The Past

By GOLDEN GLOW

Isn't it queer how one can put something away so carefully that you simply can't find it when you want it. You think you can put your hand right on it—but it just won't turn up. You look, and you look, turn everything upside down to no avail; then when you give up, more than likely, there it is right under your very nose.

It was just like that with a comical old-time jingly rhyme one of the readers of my column sent to me, thinking I could have a good laugh at its quaint wording. She had written about the missing line of the Good King Arthur rhyme that evaded me—you remember, I guess—"when Good King Arthur ruled the land, he was a goodly King," etc.—about him making a "bag pudding" and "in it put great lumps of fat as big as 'my two thumbs'."

Well—I put that little jingle away so carefully that I never turned it up till, a few minutes ago. I was here at my writing table, looking for something else, and there it was, shut carefully in a book. It is such an old-timer and so quaint that I think you all will enjoy it too, so I will copy it out. Now, don't ask me where she got it for, I don't suppose she knows. We used to learn these old nursery rhymes when we were small and never bothered our heads as to the source—or the author. (Is author the word to use in that connection?) It hasn't a title—it just starts off. It may be quite "ancient" or quite "modern", for I see it talks about petticoats and as you know petticoats have once more, after all these years, come back into style.

There was an old woman, as I've heard tell—

She went to market her eggs for to sell.

And she fell asleep on the King's Highway.

By came a pedlar, whose name was Stout,

And he cut her petticoats all round about,

He cut her petticoats off at the knees,

Which made the old woman to shiver and sneeze.

When this old woman first did awake,

She began to shiver and shake;

She began to wonder, and she began to cry,

"Lank a-mercy on me, this is none of it!"

But if it be I, and I hope it be, I've a little dog at home, and he'll know me.

If it be I, he'll wag his little tail,

If it be not I, he'll loudly bark and wail.

Home went the old woman, all in the dark,

Up jumped the little dog and began to bark.

He began to bark, and she began to cry,

"Lank a-mercy on me, this is none of it!"

I won't spoil it by adding any comments of mine. I'll just let you all have a laugh too.

Don't you sometimes wonder about those old nursery rhymes? I admit some of them are rather blood-thirsty. For instance, "Goosey-goosey gander" ends up with "I took him by the leg left and threw him down the stairs."

However I don't think youngsters of tender age pay much attention to the words. It's the jingle that catches their fancy. Again can you imagine the farmer's wife in "Three Blind Mice," "she cut off their tails with the carving knife." I bet the mice were blind if the farmer's wife got within a block of them, or she was vastly different to the rest of us of the feminine persuasion! And didn't shivers run up and down your spine when you heard about Miss Muffet: "There came an old spider and sat down beside her!" and in the "four and twenty blackbirds baked in a pie" when "the maid was in the garden hanging out the clothes, out came a blackbird and snapped off her nose." No doubt we could hear of heaps more but those three will do for this time, unless we add the one about the cranberries—only it's not blood-thirsty.

There was an old woman in Danbury

Made a meal on half a cranberry.

The story it grew, till the first thing she knew

She ate a wonderful stew

Of a ton of cranberries in Danbury.

Cheerio.

Liberals Ready For Election

Mr. Drew's action in calling an election on the hydro issue was unnecessary. The opinion has grown that hydro issue is only a guise for ulterior motives, chief of which is Mr. Drew's aspiration towards a larger field of endeavor such as that offered the federal leader of the Progressive Conservative party. There is sufficient talk of a Toronto clique anxious to unseat Mr. Bracken in favor of Mr. Drew to suggest a foundation of fact. The prestige of another victory for Mr. Drew would count for much at a federal convention.

But will it be another victory for Mr. Drew? The Liberals have been very critical of Mr. Drew's choice of an election date and the issue, but that does not mean they do not welcome an opportunity to come before the people with an alternative to another term under the Progressive-Conservatives. Mr. Farquhar Oliver, provincial Liberal leader, made it quite evident when speaking in Newmarket on Saturday that the Liberals have a definite platform and are more than willing to take it to the voters.

The Liberal platform as revealed Saturday was shrewdly aimed at the weaknesses of the Drew government as well as offering concrete proposals for correcting the faults. Offsetting the Progressive-Conservative appointees to the hydro commission was the proposal to provide representation from the hydro municipalities. Against the vague housing bill of Premier Drew, which was withdrawn after the federal government claimed the bill made it impossible to carry on with its housing program, there is a concrete Liberal proposal for tax relief on new houses.

When the federal government ended the three cents gasoline tax, the Drew government continued it in Ontario. Last year's budget shows a surplus of $25 million. Hailed by the Progressive-Conservatives as some sort of a financial victory, that surplus shows how needless the continuance of the gasoline tax actually was. The Liberals promise to do away with it. Against the Drew government's decision to grant old age pension increases of ten dollars to those who could prove the need for it—1,965 the full ten dollars, 5,000, less than ten dollars and the remaining 82 percent no increase at all up to three weeks ago—the Liberals promise the full ten dollars to all old age pensioners, bringing their pensions from $30 to $40, and in co-operation with the dominion government, to reduce the age limit from 75 to 65 years.

This is only part of the Liberal program but it well illustrates the point—that the Liberals are prepared to take concrete action to remedy existing wrongs. What is more important, however, is that the election of a Liberal government in the province offers some guarantee that the petty bickering, the cheap epithets that have characterized Mr. Drew's conversations with Ottawa will be brought to an end.

A Christian And A Gentleman

The late Levi Weddel was a man who earned in full measure the quiet affection and respect of all who knew him. He was not particularly prominent in the community activities nor did he possess some worldly attribute such as wealth or social position. He was a man simple in his tastes, quiet and reserved, but possessing a mind of his own. He asked no more of life than that he be able to live it as a Christian and a gentleman. The seemingly endless number of friends and neighbors who paid their last respects to him was testimony of how well he succeeded in his ideal.

Levi Weddel was a farmer in all the dignity that the term is capable of expressing. He was a Jersey breeder of note, a member of the York County Crop Improvement Association. A progressive man, he was willing to try new methods, new crops, to benefit by the experiences of others as well as his own. To all his tasks he brought a quiet efficiency and knowledge—and his farm prospered.

The name he bore is an old one in York county. He farmed the same land that was granted his great grandfather, John Weddel, in 1808 by King George III. The original deed with its royal seal was a prized possession. The son of the late David and Hannah Weddel, he enlarged and built upon the foundation that was laid by his pioneer forebears. The respect in which he held the heritage of the land continued beyond death. His will contained instructions for the preservation and maintenance of the physical aspects of his land which gave it the fertility it possesses.

Levi Weddel was a man among many. His passing leaves this district the poorer.

Best Wishes

The best wishes of the community go with Messrs. Early Ruthven and Lawrence Needler in their new venture, the operation of a bus line in Newmarket. It is an experiment which, if successful, will give a much needed service to Newmarket and aid materially in the physical expansion of the town.

There are many who foresee a difficult task ahead, indeed, prophesy disaster, in this attempt to establish a bus service in a municipality the size of Newmarket. Perhaps they are right. However, no one will know for a certainty until it has been given a fair trial. Messrs. Ruthven and Needler are to be congratulated in the courage of their conviction, rather than derided. Progress is paced by efforts such as theirs.

This paper, for one, wishes them the best of luck in their venture.

The nomination of Mr. Ross Linton, Aurora, as Liberal candidate for York North should bring general approval. Mr. Linton is not unknown to the political scene. He was mayor of Aurora for four years, retiring last year. Prior to that, he had served five years on the council. Known throughout the riding, he brings many friendships as well as political support to his contest for the riding.

It remained for Mr. J. O. Little to bring into proper perspective the sport of fishing, and withal, set something of a record for the opening of the trout season. The details of Mr. Little's catch are recorded elsewhere but what struck us in the chronicle was not the size of the fish but the manner in which it was caught. You note that Mr. Little did not feel it necessary to rise at dawn to catch his giant. There is no suggestion of haste, of finicky attention to tackle. Instead, there is the long snooze on a holiday morning, the leisurely consideration of the task ahead, the gentle concern with the bait, and finally—ah, the stroke of genius—the oil of cloves. Here indeed is the master at work and in the manner which bespeaks volumes for the satisfaction to be had in fishing. There is nothing of "have to catch a fish, any fish, or else" about Mr. Little. Is it any wonder that he should bring home the prize?

Kettleby United 75th Anniversary

This month the United church in Kettleby celebrates the 75th anniversary of the building of the present church. But that does not mark the beginning of the Methodist congregation in Kettleby. Back in 1853, 95 years ago, Rev. Geo. McRiche, the Methodist minister at Lloydtown, began preaching services in Kettleby. Before Schomberg was founded and when the town of Aurora was only a few corners, Kettleby was quite a thriving village. They had in that day a sawmill, a grist mill (this still remains as one of the landmarks of an early day), a woollen mill, two stores, a wagon shop, a tailors shop and two hotels.

The late J. M. Walton in his short story of Kettleby tells how the farmers 75 and 80 years ago brought their grain to the local mill and it was no unusual sight to see wagons lined from the mill back half way between the fifth and sixth concessions.

At first the services of the Methodist congregation were held in the temperance hall, now the property of the United church. They alternated with the services conducted by the Church of England. In those early days the congregation must have been small and the people poor for in 1856 the Kettleby congregation was assessed for $40 towards the minister's salary. In 1864, preaching services began at Schomberg and the Lloydtown circuit consisted of Tottenham, Brownsville, Monkman's, Rich Hill, Lloydtown, Proctor's and Kettleby. Two ministers served the circuit, the older minister stationed at Lloydtown and the junior minister at Kettleby. The junior minister received a salary of $140 a year or just under 40 cents a day with board and horse keep.

In 1871 Rev. Peter Addison was appointed to the Lloydtown circuit and with his coming the whole circuit took on new life. In the fall of 1872 a new church was built at Lloydtown which building was afterwards sold to the Roman Catholics and forms a part of their beautiful church in Schomberg.

At Kettleby, the congregation had grown to such an extent that a demand was made for a new church building. A board of trustees was appointed consisting of Robert Tilson, Isaac Gordon, Simon Lemon, Robert Cook, James L. Spink, Oliver J. Smith, Charles Lloyd, Isaac Holmeshead, Benjamin Hollingshead, John H. Smith, John Lloyd, Richard Furling and Thomas Barradell. They purchased a lot from Mr. and Mrs. Butler for $195 and in the month of May, 1873, the present building was dedicated.

At the celebration of the 50th anniversary, Rev. Dr. Peter Addison was present and preached. At that service seven people were present who had attended the opening services of the church. Today, three weeks before the celebration of the 75th anniversary, four are still living. They are Mrs. Dutcher, Mrs. Louis Mount, Mrs. Bolton and Watson Elliott, the latter two of Aurora.

Kettleby, as head of a circuit, came into being in 1902 when Snowball, Glenville and Pottageville were added to Kettleby to form the present circuit. Being a new circuit, the first duty of the official board was to secure a parsonage for their minister. A committee was appointed to secure a suitable house with the instruction they were not to pay over $50 per annum rent.

The first parsonage was located back of the mill but in 1903 a house belonging to Mr. Wilkinson was bought and after quite extensive repairs the minister moved in. This house was burned in 1928 and the beautiful and very comfortable house now occupied by the minister was erected.

Two years ago a bathroom was installed and at the time of writing the house is being painted on the outside and decorated within. When completed it will be one of the most comfortable and beautiful rural parsonages in the Toronto conference.

The date of the anniversary will be May 23 with two services, 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. In the morning the minister, Rev. C. E. Cragg, will preach with special music by the male quartet of Gormley assisted by the choir, and in the evening the Very Rev. George C. Pidgeon, first moderator of the United church, will preach with special music by the choir.

COME IN AND SEE THE 1949 MONARCH

Fender skirts, chrome trim rings and white side-wall tires optional at extra cost when available

IT'S NEW through and through

Now the Grand New Monarch steps UP... Steps into a new class! Here's a big, broad, heavy car that looks NEW... looks new because it is completely new! The New Monarch looks DIFFERENT... because it has a completely NEW body... a bigger body of most modern construction... a ROOMIER body with lines that will capture your imagination!

We started from SCRATCH! The engineers were told to start with the newest, STRONGEST, LOWEST, kind of frame to carry the widest possible body. They were told to mount this frame on the newest, EASIEST-RIDING springs to give the flattest, SMOOTH-EST ride known to the motor car industry. When these things were done they perfected the ride with the most modern, smoothest-acting, trouble-free shock absorbers... That's why neither road bumps nor curves disturb your glorious feeling of RELAX-ATION—when you "Ride like a King" behind the NEW 110 Horsepower "V" type 8-cylinder Engine in the NEW Monarch.

Interiors delight your Good Taste! Every single detail of the New Monarch's interiors will delight you with its good taste... the sparkling new Instrument Panel—with most CONVENIENT arrangement of controls—a BUILT-IN ventilating system with dual instrument panel controls, that provides any desired amount of fresh air—or fresh warm air with a heater installed—lights that illuminate the interior when you open any door—rich upholstery that harmonizes with exterior colours—all these and dozens of other delightful touches are yours when you own a NEW Monarch!

Ride with your Monarch Dealer! Pictures can't convey the distinction of this new car... neither can words give you the THRILL of DRIVING a New Monarch! Go to your Monarch dealer's and look at this car that's NEW through and through... make a date to go for a drive with your Monarch dealer—then you'll KNOW that the NEW Monarch is the car you want... the car you must have to satisfy your pride of ownership!

QUEENSVILLE 2620Young Hopefuls

By DOROTHY MUIR ROWMAN

Reg, eight years old, has been harboring some disconcerting thoughts as a result of his parents' frequent and heated arguments. Perhaps Reg's parents don't argue often or in a more heated fashion than other couples to child audiences. However, the concern their really trivial scenes has caused their son cannot be denied and should not be ignored.

On one particular evening, everything was peaceful—Daddy was reading the paper, except for the funnies which Reg was monopolizing; and Mother was finishing the supper dishes. Then the phone rang. There was some of the usual conversation about who would answer it. Mother's hands were wet, it was past Reg's bedtime, and besides, Daddy was closest. On the fourth ring, Daddy dislodged himself from his comfortable lounging attitude and answered.

The neighborhood gossip and Daddy's pet peeve was on the line. She simply invited herself over and then hung up. Daddy blew up. "Of all the busy-bodies! Why can't she leave other people alone and stay at home for a change!" Mother made a vain attempt to pacify him, but, knowing how allergic her husband is to this individual, she should have saved her breath. "It isn't as if she stayed very late. Anyway, she hasn't been here more than once during the past week."

Daddy (emphatically): Once a year would be too often to suit me. I believe you encourage her—that's what you do! How you can stand such a person is beyond me.

Mother (losing her temper): There's no need to get yourself upset, and I don't encourage her; but, if you ask me, she's a sight better than some of the men you bring to the house.

Daddy (more emphatically): She's a sight, alright. Listen here, you leave my friends out of this. I'll take them to yours any day. However, if you prefer her company to mine—that's your business. I'm going out and get some fresh air. (Exit with a bang.)

Miss Neighborhood Gossip arrived a few minutes later just as Reg was on his way upstairs to bed. She said "Goodnight" to him. For answer, Reg turned around and began "telling her off" in the mood and tempo of the fast and furious scene his parents had just had. "Why did you have to come over here—you busy-body you? You made my daddy and mother fight—my daddy thinks you are a sight and he's gone away and he may never come back. Oh you sight! You make me mad—you make me sick!" Then Reg ran to his room, sobbing wildly.

By the time Reg calmed down, Miss Gossip was home and so was Daddy. Reg was ashamed he had been rude but he confessed he had felt like being that way every time his daddy and mother were cross with each other. "I'm always afraid Daddy will go away and never come back to live with us—like Paul's father."

It seems that two years ago his friend, Paul, had a father who lived at home. One day Paul's father told Paul's mother he couldn't live at home and he went away and only came back a few times to visit after that. Paul's story had made a definite impression on Reg because for the past two years Reg had been fearing that the same thing would happen to him.

Children do need to feel secure in their homelife. Although it is impossible to sterilize our speech and actions for the benefit of children—we should be cautious and conscious of misinterpretations among young listeners and suppress strong emotions with modulated speech and action.

Shortage of animal and vegetable protein feeds need not worry farmers who make use of good green pasture, especially alfalfa. Here is the cheapest and most efficient source of protein foods available for poultry—plus vitamins and minerals so essential to brooding and rearing of healthy birds.

Plow and plant to hoed crop the third year. Then return the land to nurse crop and alfalfa.

Your nearest experimental farm and agricultural college have practical men working all the time on farm problems. The information they have gathered is yours for the asking—and can be a real help in increasing your farm earnings.

The experienced, capable manager of our branch in your district can be of real help to you, too. He knows your financial problems and is genuinely anxious to give you practical assistance in solving them.

The Common Round...

By Isabel Inglis Colville

LETTERS

Along with gateways and turns in the road, letters are amongst the mysteries with which we come in contact every day of our lives. I do not know how going for the mail affects other people, but for me there is always a quickening of interest, a vague feeling of excitement, a hint, almost, of awe for who knows what may be within those innocent appearing envelopes.

We look them over, giving a glance of welcome to writing as familiar as our own, but even these have their own hint of the mysterious for who knows what of joy or sorrow, success or failure may have been the writer's lot since last we saw that particular writing.

Letters are mysterious for another reason—unless they are typed—that is, not for their content, but for their handwriting. I have painful proof of this, as I know for a positive fact that it sometimes takes the entire family to decipher what I fondly imagined was a particularly interesting letter.

Of course there is this to be said for such a letter—it takes so much time, patience and skill in decoding that its news—if any—will be remembered long after that in a more easily read epistle is forgotten.

I remember writing a letter to my mother while in a row boat journeying between Garrett's Rest on the Rideau and Portland. Thinking I had done my duty, and I was at an age when duty didn't weigh too heavily, I posted my letter and returning home, hoped for a word of reward for my virtuous effort. What I got was something different. Mother said, "I've something to show you, Isabel." And hoping for a new party dress I yearned for. I said eagerly, "Oh good!" "Maybe it is," countered my parent, "I wouldn't know."

Seeing my look of bewilderment, she brought forth my effusion of the row boat and said, "I'd be glad if you would read this, even if it is a little late." I looked at the letter and I looked at mother and my heart failed within me, for even with the aid of memory plus a microscope, scattered fragments were all I could decipher to regale mother's ears. It should have been a lesson but it wasn't—ask your editor. Once in a while I hear a patient, much enduring voice say, "Mrs. Colville, there is a word in your article which the entire staff from the editor to Ginger have puzzled over and each coming up with a different interpretation. Do you suppose if we read you the text before and after you could give us the debated word?"

Sitting at my end of the telephone line, with no doubt a wild and terrified expression on my face from beautiful countenance, I cast madly round in the dark pool of memory and come up with what I hope—hope—I repeat, will make sense. A relieved voice at the other end of the line says, "Thanks very much," and a not so relieved woman at this end assumes the responsibility of whatever of good or evil may appear.

A friend of mine being ill, I wrote her what I hoped might be a consolatory letter. Her daughter undertook to translate it. After a few words which, being the usual opening of any letter, she could guess at, she remarked Aunt Ezzie is a peculiar writer, isn't she? And let it go at that and her mother, who had the enforced leisure of illness, eventually conquered the contents—at least if she didn't she was too polite to say so.

Speaking of letters, I wish to make here public mention of the many I have received re the Common Round from far and near—from Mexico, from various places in the United States and Canada, from England and Scotland—all welcome, all giving me the encouragement which is so helpful. I try to answer them, but owing to various things happening I have been late with some and hope Mrs. G. E. Hawtin, England, Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Joyce will pardon the delay and accept this as apology and promise.

It is interesting and helpful to find out from letters which subjects I try to write about strike those who write and these letters give me ideas of what goes on in people's minds as they follow the Common Round in more ways than one. Yes, letters have everything that any book has—romance—for who doesn't remember their first love letter—sorrow, tragedy, joy, censure. So do you wonder that I maintain that letters are mysterious?

Film 'Home Town Paper'

The Home Town Paper, a motion picture produced by the National Film Board on the modern Canadian weekly newspaper, has been released to the theatres of Canada in the board's Canada Carries On series. In this way, it will be shown all across the dominion to an audience estimated at more than 2,000,000 people. A French-language version, Courrier de Chez-Nous, will be simultaneously released on the NFB series. En Avant Canada, French-language counterpart of Canada Carries On.

Following its theatrical run, the Home Town Paper will be released in 16mm, suitable for use in hotels, homes, clubs, schools, any place a 16mm projector may be set up and operated. Further distribution will include bookings on the NFB rural circuits system and in film libraries and community film councils all over Canada. Then the film will go abroad to be shown in almost 50 countries by the Dominion's high commissioners, ambassadors, foreign ministers, trade commissioners and others. In some cases, versions will be provided with titles and sound track in the languages of the countries the films will go to. The Home Town Paper is a significant screen coverage of a weekly newspaper. It touches lightly the mechanical side of publishing, emphasizes the vital, intimate relationship between a community and its paper. In doing this, it becomes a thorough coverage of an average small community's everyday life, its people, its thoughts and activities.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Newmarket—Last Sunday was Rogation Sunday when special prayers are said for the blessing of the seed being sown. In many places in Canada as well as in England a special service is observed called "Beating the Bounds" when clergy and people go in procession around the bounds of the parish, stopping at certain locations for prayers and Scripture reading.

Today being Ascension Day there was a celebration of Holy Communion at 10.30 in the church. The Sunday services, including Sunday-school in the morning, were well attended. Rev. L. R. Willis assisted both morning and evening. The flowers on the altar were in loving memory of Mr. Penn Haight from his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Scythas. A week from today will be the May monthly meeting of the W.A. when the reports

Prompt Shipment!

Yes, we can give you prompt shipment on Bray Chicks; and if you haven't already started your chicks (or are considering a second brood!) that is worth thinking about!

Egg market prospects are bright. Fewer early chicks... heavy marketing of layers... high meat prices, high consumer incomes, all point to short supply, heavy demand, and good prices. Poultry meat prospects are bright, too. In fact the Dominion Department of Agriculture Marketing Service says the situation is "the best in years."

Some smart people are going to make real money this year by keeping their brooder space filled with good chicks. And Bray Chicks are good chicks... vigorous, thrifty, fast-growing with a deserved reputation for high livability, rapid development, and profitable production of both eggs and meat.

Dismiss Assault For Lack Of Evidence

Newmarket—A charge of assault laid against Reginald Bolender and Mrs. A. Bolender, Holland Landing, for inflicting bodily harm on Mrs. Arthur Holly, Holland Landing, on Wednesday, April 14, was dismissed in magistrate's court on Friday. Magistrate Kenneth Langdon, in the absence of O. S. Hollinrake, said there was no evidence that actual bodily harm had been done by the accused.

The complainant, Mrs. Holly, said that she had gone to Bolender's store to pick up the mail and was refused any mail by Mrs. A. Bolender, who called Reginald Bolender into the store. She said that Bolender had assaulted her and pointed out to several bruises on her arms, and stated that he threw her out of the store. She claimed that she received bruises to the upper part of her arms, wrists, left eye, and to her right ankle.

Counsel for defence, Jos. Vale, asked the complainant if her husband was against her being allowed to pick up the mail. She replied that he was not.

Constable Jack Lawrence, York county police, who investigated with Chief Constable Burdige on the day of the occurrence, said she had complained of bruises to the knees and knuckles.

Dr. Blackwell, Bradford, who attended Mrs. Holly on Thursday, April 15, testified that he saw slight injuries to the upper part of both arms. Dr. S. J. Boyd, Newmarket, who attended her on the following day, said he noted bruises to the eye, arms and ankle.

Magistrate Langdon said that the court had no jurisdiction over a dispute about a property settlement. The charge, laid against W. S. Wickham, Oak Ridges, was dismissed.

Dr. Crawford Rose, Aurora, testified that he went to the house of the complainant, Mrs. Pesquino, Oak Ridges, on April 17 and found that she had a deep cut in her scalp and was bleeding badly. He gave the necessary medical aid, he said, and waited until the police arrived. Dr. Rose said he admitted the complainant to York County hospital 24 hours later on the suspicion that she had a fractured skull, however x-rays, he said, showed the next day that there was no fracture.

Constable Fleury, who investigated, testified that the complainant had stated, on his arrival, that she had been struck by a chicken trough. Mrs. Mary Sutton, daughter of the complainant, who lives next door, said that Wickham was the owner of the property where her mother lived and had been in an argument about occupancy.

Jr. Farmers Have Outstanding Meet

York county was well represented at the fourth annual meeting and conference of the Junior Farmers' Association of Ontario at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, April 25-27. Each of the seven local clubs had a mixed delegation of two and the county association was represented by two voting and four non-voting delegates.

Recognized as the outstanding conference to date, an enrolment of over 600 was recorded including guests from Illinois, Iowa and Michigan. These young guests took a prominent part in the various discussions and very informatively discussed their own youth work in the States.

"Our responsibility" proved a timely theme for the entire conference and this was first ably demonstrated in the impressive church service held Sunday evening in Memorial Hall. The entire service was in the capable hands of Junior Farmers and the sermon by George Faris of Simcoe was an outstanding contribution. Don Milburn, Peterborough county, conducted the service and the Oxford Junior Farmers provided the special choir. The offering was donated to "Save the Children Fund."

Addresses by visiting American delegates were very favorably received and the banquet speaker, John Fisher, CBC commentator, delivered a most inspiring talk entitled, "Gee and Haw." Following this feature, the group viewed a "Dress Review" parade directed by Miss Lulu Row, home economist for York county. This proved a highlight of the conference. Four girls and five boys acted as models displaying fashions which would be suitable for various Junior Farmer occasions. Bruce Hoiles of the Vellore Club was the York county representative. Following this presentation a monster dance in the dining hall served to acquaint further the numerous delegates.

Separate sessions on Tuesday morning assured the delegates of interesting and timely subjects to each group. At the annual meeting in the afternoon, Lois Graham of Highland Creek, an outstanding Junior, was elected the Ontario Director for Zone 7 which includes North and South Simcoe and York counties. At the directors' meeting held immediately afterwards, Ross Beattie of Stayner was elected president, Allan Poole of Lanark county, vice-president, and T. R. Hillard, Newmarket, secretary.

Those present from York county were: for Sharon, Shirley Gartshore and Angus Morton; for Unionville, Lois Graham and Stuart Watson; for Vellore, Lawrence Smith and Isobel Stephenson; for Vellore, Carl Boynton and Evelyn Hare; for Victoria Square, Don Stephenson and Phil Rumney; for Schomberg, Audrey Marchant and Doug Marchant; for Sutton, Jean Stephens and Eileen Giles, and for the county, Elson Miles, Ruth Farr, Jean McGillivray and Charlie Taylor.

BELHAVEN

The regular meeting of the Belhaven Women's Institute will be held in the hall on the afternoon of Tuesday, May 11, at 2.30. Each member is asked to contribute one item toward the program. A good attendance is anticipated. All women in the community will be given a cordial welcome.

The present good seeding weather is welcomed by the farmers.

The community is pleased to see Mr. J. Nelson back from the hospital and looking well again.

Mrs. T. Horner enjoyed her first drive of the season last week. She and Mr. Horner visited at the home of their son, Mr. Harry Horner, and family.

ROSS LINTON

(Continued from Page 1) on Singer, president of the Ontario Young Liberal Association. N. L. Mathews, K.C., was chairman of the meeting. Lorne C. Lee said that although he once had an inclination in his youth, to enter into political life, the pressure of work did not permit him to be a candidate. J. L. Spillette expressed a consciousness of the honor of the nomination but said he must decline for business reasons. At no time, said Mr. Spillette, has there been an election so unnecessary and he said he sensed ulterior motives on the part of the present government.

Mrs. N. L. Mathews said she was disappointed that no attempts had been made to contact women for possible candidates. Half the votes are polled by women, she said, and women should be as good in politics as anyone because they have experience and responsibility as mothers and in the home. Mr. Parker, Willowdale, said there would be little doubt as to the party the votes would go in the coming election. "I will work just as hard for the party whoever is chosen for candidate," he said.

Colin Campbell reported that the campaign is progressing favorably. By last Saturday night, 34 candidates would be named by Liberals, he said. He named a woman candidate in a Windsor riding who will run against the liquor commissioner, as an example of the high cal-

bre of Liberal candidates that are being nominated.

J. E. Smith, Ottawa Liberal member for this riding, disagreeing with Mr. Spillette, said he felt that the election is very necessary. "I don't think the election was called too soon and the opportunity has come to get rid of Ontario's biggest stumbling block Geo. Drew. Drew, an imperialist, calls Quebec's premier Duplessis his friend. If it were not for Drew and Duplessis," he said, "we would have health and hospitalization insurance now."

Mrs. Lorne C. Lee, president of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association, spoke of the May day celebrations on Saturday of the Communists throughout the world and said that we should be prepared to stand up and defend our politics as they do. "Liberalism means progressive reform with the least discomfort to the people," she said, "and as Liberals, if ever we do not have a crusade for reform, we are Tories."

For the National Liberal Convention at Ottawa, August 5, 6 and 7, the nominating committee reported three delegates who would go, Thomas Blackburn, Col. W. P. Mulock and Ross Linton, with Jos. Vale, Peter Burt and Arthur LeFaye as alternate delegates.

Lonesome Polecats Ask For Track

Newmarket — The Lonesome Polecat motorcycle club, represented by Orla Larson, asked council Monday night for permission to use the race track for three of four motorcycle races this season. Mr. Larson said that the club wished to fix up the track with its own money and take gate receipts.

The request was referred to the property committee. Councilor Tom Birrell said that the club would have to solve the problem of public protection around the track and complaints about the noise.

After a wait of seven months, members of the Franklin Fishing club sallied forth to pond and stream for the opening of the speckled trout season. Many were on the pond at 4 a.m. and several good catches were reported.

However, it remained for the old veteran, John O. Little, to break many a Newmarket trout record on the first day of the season. While his club associates were covering the pond and whipping every hole on the stream, John chose to sleep till noon and spent the afternoon getting his mystery tackle in order for a pleasant evening.

He waited until all the fishermen had wended their way home and with Steve Rose as a capable guide, moved silently to the big log where since before daybreak, six veterans had covered every inch of water with every form of tackle.

After a consultation with his guide, John chose an educated dew worm from his own garden, tipped the nose and tail with a drop of oil of cloves (a little secret) and sunk the luminous tid-bit seven feet below the log.

After over ten years of various offerings one of Franklin's grandpa trout took a liking to John's selection and made off with the choice morsel. John responded with his usual finesse and set the hook as few fishermen know how to do it.

After playing the big trout for some time it was brought to the net and proved a beautiful specimen of Fontinalis. It measured 12½" around, 19½" long and weighed close to four pounds.

All Newmarket congratulates John on catching such a trout six miles from his home town.

Spring Stamp

By now, we all should know about the big, and last dance of the year, to be held at the school Friday night at 8.30. Be sure to turn out for this last dance.

Saturday Nights

Last Saturday night the first of the Pickering - High School dances was held at Pickering. We're glad to say that the dance was successful. From all reports it seems that everyone enjoyed themselves. We're glad to hear this as it means these dances will be carried on. One thing seemed very strange, there were only about ten or 11 high school boys there. Surely we have more than this in the school who are willing to co-operate when a suggestion like this is put before them. Let us see if next Saturday night we can have a still bigger crowd than that of last week. Remember it is to be held here at N.H.S. next week. Show the boys from Pickering that you are a good sport.

Speaking of dances, we have heard from several reports that Square Dancing is definitely a must for the modern. In the Toronto high schools combined P.T. classes are being taught Square Dancing. Sounds like it might be a good idea doesn't it?

KETTLEBY

Last Sunday was Rogation Sunday, the time set apart by the church for special prayers that God may bless the seeding of fields and gardens. The preacher was Rev. Prof. Coleman, Wycliffe College, Toronto, who impressed us with the importance of remembering the earth belongs to God and we should make the best use we can of the soil He has given us, not to exploit it for our own gains.

Christ church Ladies' Guild meeting is on Tuesday next, May 11, at the parish hall. Come in working clothes as the guild is going to clean the hall. We should like every member to attend and come early in the morning.

Next Sunday, May 9, is Mother's Day. Let us all remember mother to show we appreciate all she has done for us.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Clawson on the birth of their son on Saturday, May 1. Also to the proud grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hunter.

Newmarket BUS LINES Now in Operation For Public Service

Tentative Route With Added Routes Later—

CHECK STOPS FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

The Newmarket Bus Line started operating on Monday, May 3, and will be timed to meet the greatest demand at peak hours and pick up passengers at the most convenient spots. There are 28 stops on the present route that has been laid out.

Two buses will operate on one large circle route, travelling in opposite directions. One bus will have its terminal at Lorne Ave. and Eagle St. and the other at Vale Ave. and Strigley St. in the Cnaught Garden area. Each bus will start at 6.25 a.m. and be back at the terminal in a half hour, at 6.55, and will continue the half-hour service through the day. Timing, however, will be so arranged that buses will be at factory stops at noon and quitting times to pick up workers as they come out.

Following the bus that starts at Lorne and Eagle as a terminal, the 28 stops in order are Eagle and Ellen, Eagle and Andrew, Water and Main, Timothy and Main, Botsford and Main, Millard and Main, Queen and Main, Ontario and Main, Davis Dr. and Main, Davis Dr. and Superior, Davis Dr. and Charles, Davis Dr. and Prospect, Prospect and Grace, Prospect and Queen, Queen at Veterans' Land Act, Pleasantview at Veterans' Land Act, Crescent and Wesley, Vale and Strigley, Prospect and Strigley, Prospect and Timothy, Prospect and Water, Water and Main, Water and D'Arcy, Eagle and Ellen, Ellen and Andrew, Andrew and Lorne and the Lorne and Eagle terminal.

The other bus makes the same stops going in the opposite direction, but starts and ends its run at Vale and Strigley. Each bus will pass one bus stop every half-hour all through the day.

When all the lines are operating and an idea of the demand for buses can be determined, another route might be considered from the east end of Gorham St., through the downtown area to the centre west part of town and back again.

The bus lines will do their best to give a convenient service for factory employees going to and from work, as well as housewives, school children and Main St. workers.

Buses will run until 10 p.m., Monday through Friday but on Saturdays will start an hour later and will continue to midnight.
